

84% Document Reduction Leads to $600k Cost Savings

SITUATION

A Partner at a large law firm with 23 offices in the U.S. received a large data collection, including more than 700,000 documents. With a high document count and litigation preparations already underway, the firm needed support. They chose Proteus Discovery as their trusted review partner.

ACTION

Proteus's Review Project Managers developed a customized solution to reduce the number of documents. The law firm's team leveraged search terms and Proteus utilized predictive coding strategies in combination with Barnes' search terms to drastically reduce the reviewable data set down to 111,000 documents. Working together, both teams culled the data set down.

This significantly smaller subset of documents was reviewed for responsiveness, issues, and privilege by Proteus's team of US-based, licensed review attorneys prior to production.

IMPACT

The team reduced the original collection of 700,000 documents by more than 84%. This streamlining in the review process also significantly brought down the cost to $0.78 per document (versus a standard $1 per document) charge as a result.

Partnering with Proteus's Project Management team and Managed Review Services, the firm enjoyed a considerable decrease in documents for document review, and cost.
